Red Guards Control Canton; Opposition Underground

By IAN BRODIE
London Daily Express
CANTON, China (AP) — Though one million Red Guards throng Canton's streets and are in effective control, there are no civil disorders. The opposition to the guards is cover, furtive and virtually underground. Police are still on duty, most of them wearing armbands to show they are in the Red Guards anyway. But traffic in the streets of southeast China's biggest city is limited to a handful of trucks, packed buses and trolley-buses. On my way to Canton I wondered if I would meet any Red Guards. By now I have seen thousands upon thousands, shaken hands with hundreds who wanted to be friendly and even had one try to press his red armband on me as a mark of honorary membership.

Their fervor is pathetic but self-sustaining. Primed with the thoughts of Mao Tse-tung to solve all problems, they see the golden classless future as theirs to inherit. Their movement is a pilgrimage but the only duty is Mao. Out in the countryside I saw many more columns of youths marching to join their comrades. One group of 50, with bedrolls on their backs and mostly barefoot, had been walking behind their red flag along dusty roads for four days. They said it may be a year before they see their village again. Apart from their teacher, not one of them was over 13. I was told the influx into Canton has built up suddenly during the last two troubled weeks — since Mao and Defense Minister Lin Biao said the cultural revolution must spread to every work bench and rice paddy in the land.

Apparently, all major cities now have a similar flood of marchers. The disruption of traffic, normal working and food supplies is unimaginable. Older men who must keep working to feed their families are growing increasingly resentful, I was told. So are some young workers who are not students and who want to get on with learning a trade. The Red Guards are everywhere in Canton, jammed on the pavement outside my hotel, milling in continuous procession along the main streets, accosting everyone daring them to defy Mao's thoughts. They tolerate no opposition. And yet it was possible to detect that opposition still exists in Canton. It is underground. It is small. But it appears to be determined.

The Chinese official assigned to me by the authorities — a wary Mr. Wu — admitted that there had been labor troubles and strikes in Canton. From his account they were not coordinated or organized. Yet opponents of Mao had been able to trigger workers' unrest sufficiently to set up a number of wildcat walkouts. In recent weeks the tempo of ramming home Mao's message has been stepped up. One aim of the cultural revolution is to make his words and image totally ubiquitous. At every mealtime — delicate Cantonese cooking eaten with chopsticks — I sat under a red banner that said: "Chairman Mao is the most outstanding leader of the proletariat in the present era, and the greatest genius in the present era — Lin Biao." That sets the tone for Mao-think.

Romney Takes War Stand

Reliance On Bombing Hit

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George Romney's unannounced campaign for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination expanded significantly this weekend with his first apparently planned plunge into the foreign policy arena. The shift marks a sharp departure from Romney's previous reluctance to discuss national issues, particularly the biggest one — the war in Vietnam. As recently as a week ago, newsmen seeking interviews with him were told that questions about foreign policy were off limits.

Now, Romney suggests that the Johnson Administration may have placed too much emphasis on bombing North Vietnam as compared with other means of cutting off supplies moving south from Hanoi. Consulted Lodge Romney and Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, met behind closed doors in Washington for more than an hour Friday to discuss the war. Neither man would reveal details of their talk. But Romney's position, tentatively taken and still in the formative stage, was unveiled privately at a Washington breakfast with Detroit newsmen.

He discussed some of the factors he is weighing in adopting his view on the Vietnam conflict — chief among them the emphasis placed on aerial bombing of the north. Failed in Germany Romney says that he believes saturation bombing failed to bring Germany to her knees in World War II because it could not overcome human adaptability. He says this adaptability is even greater in Vietnam, where American bombers are striking at an essentially undeveloped country rather than a modern, industrialized nation. What means Romney favors to stop the flow of supplies from Hanoi is not known. At the same time, Romney believes the United States has a moral right to try to prevent North Vietnam from imposing its will on the south. Romney also is considering the argument of those who say President Johnson's Vietnam policy alternates between emphasis on military escalation one day and peace negotiations the next.

Dirksen Eyes Space Program Spending Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, looking for ways to avoid a tax increase, says the space program could be the place to cut government expenditures. Dirksen said "I've been looking at that space program. I don't mind telling you, Does it really make a difference whether we get to the moon this year, or next year, or the following year?" "I doubt very much whether it makes a great deal of difference," he said Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers." "And if we reconcile ourselves to that thesis, then of course there is a place where you can make a very substantial (budget) cut."

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation" that cuts in federal spending are the key to the tax issue. He said there "is no economic case" for the 6 per cent income tax surcharge asked by President Johnson. Long said it "would tend to retard the economy." He expressed doubt it would soon be approved. Five freshmen Republican senators said on the NBC television-radio program "Meet the Press" they would have to be shown there was no other way to finance the Vietnam war before they would vote for a tax increase. The five are Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming.

Kept Mum The governor, who captured a third term by landslide in November, has said publicly that he was not informed enough to speak authoritatively on the Vietnam war. He declined to talk about it. Simultaneously, however, he steadily took steps to become authoritative on Vietnam and other major issues. His briefing with Lodge is one example. Romney also plans a summer visit to Vietnam. Some observers suggested that Romney revealed his position while it still is in the embryonic stage because he was spurred by reports that support for him was cooling since he had failed to deal with major issues.

New York Social Service Workers Strike Over Pay

NEW YORK (AP) — Welfare workers went on strike today but the Welfare Department assured its 600,000 clients their assistance checks would go out on time "for the duration." The strike by 7,500 members of the Independent Social Service Employees Union—caseworkers, homemakers and children's counselors—came as negotiations continued at the offices of city labor relations director Herbert Haber. The workers struck after the city turned down what the union called a "rock bottom" demand, terms of which were not disclosed. The union had been seeking an increase in starting pay from the present $5,750 to $6,800 a year.

Jets Renew Bombing Of Targets At Hanoi

PART OF THE NAME of the ore carrier Daniel J. Morrell, which sank Nov. 29 in a Lake Huron storm, show up on film taken by a television camera lowered to examine the hulk. Sighting of the name was conclusive evidence that the wreck of the Morrell had been found at a depth of about 200 feet. The Coast Guard hopes that examination of the hulk will help explain the sinking, in which 28 men died. (AP Wirephoto)

Cong Massacre 44 Prisoners In Delta Camp

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. supersonic jets flew past Communist MIGs today to bomb an oil depot 14½ miles from Hanoi. It was the closest major strike to the North Vietnamese capital since the controversy over civilian casualties arose last month. A U.S. spokesman said American bombers attacked the Ha Gia fuel storage area 14½ miles north-northwest of Hanoi. It had been attacked before on Dec. 2 and 5. U.S. pilots for a second day took advantage of clearing skies over North Vietnam after more than two months of almost unbroken bad weather. In forays Sunday American bombers pounded three targets 15 to 40 miles north and northwest of Hanoi, including the Viet Tri railroad yard. The pilots reported light to heavy ground fire over some target areas Sunday and two flights of Air Force jets sighted MIGs, but there were no encounters.

Helicopter Downed

Eight American servicemen were killed Sunday when a CH-47 Chinook helicopter was shot down in the Mekong Delta about seven miles southwest of Can Tho, a military spokesman said. A ninth man aboard the craft was listed as missing. The spokesman said he did not yet have results of today's raid on the Ha Gia oil depot. He said pilots reported sighting MIGs during the flights but that there were no clashes. Ground fighting flared deep in the Mekong Delta as South Vietnamese Rangers reported killing 74 Viet Cong today in a clash two miles from where government forces uncovered a massacre at a Communist prison camp. A Vietnamese military spokesman said the Viet Cong killed 44 Vietnamese prisoners, most of them civilians, in camp about 100 miles southwest of Saigon before they pulled out of the area in the face of advancing South Vietnamese troops.

Kill Civilians

Most of the prisoners, he said, were killed by gunfire and grenades but some showed marks of knifing or bayoneting. The dead included two women and two children, the spokesman said, and added that some of the prisoners were tied up. Six of the prisoners—five civilians and one soldier—survived and were rescued by Vietnamese troops. Two miles from the prison camp, the elite 42nd South Vietnamese Ranger battalion clashed with an estimated 500 Viet Cong this morning. The Rangers, holders of a U.S. presidential citation from President Johnson, reported killing 74 Viet Cong with support from air strikes and artillery. They also seized 10 enemy weapons and reported no casualties to their own force.

South Vietnamese Headquarters

also reported that government troops killed 66 Viet Cong in four engagements Sunday in the Mekong Delta and 46 Communist soldiers in an action in northernmost Quang Tri Province 410 miles northeast of Saigon. U.S. military headquarters reported a steadily mounting toll of Communists killed or captured in Operation Cedar Falls in the "iron triangle" north of Saigon and the termination of Operation Deckhouse 5 in the Mekong Delta. Ho Calls Yanks In Vietnam 'A Shameful Thing'

By BILL BAGGS
Copyright, Miami News

HANOI, North Vietnam (AP) — President Ho Chi Minh said the people of North Vietnam cherished peace, but they would never surrender their independence to purchase peace for their country. He described the presence of American soldiers in the south, "sent here to kill and be killed," as "a shameful thing."

A visitor got the impression that Ho considered the bombings of his country an atrocity by the United States. He mentioned the bombings several times. He obviously is well-informed about political and economic events in America. He was cordial, even friendly, but he was politely firm in expressing the policy of his country. At times he became impatient with the translator and he turned and addressed his American visitor in faultless English.

The central policy of his government in the conflict with the Americans appeared to be a resolution against any intimidation of "the independence and freedom" of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam. "The people of Vietnam cherish peace very much. But peace is peace only if you have independence and freedom," he said.

"We will never surrender our independence for the sake of peace. We have battled too long for independence and freedom." The words, "independence and freedom," are words you hear often in Hanoi and in the countryside of North Vietnam. Indeed, these words are a kind of motto among the people.

A few days before the meeting with Ho, a minister in the government here explained to this reporter: "You must remember that we have been at war for 25 years. We were at war with the Japanese after they occupied our country during World War II. Then the French returned and tried to re-establish their rule in our country. We fought and defeated the French, and now the Americans.

"So, we have fought too many wars for too many years to compromise our independence now."

Ho Chi Minh is a legend in Asia. He appeared half a century ago as a nationalist in Europe and particularly in Paris, arguing for the independence of his country. He once worked in New York City in a menial job and he exhibited a respect for America in the conversation.

"We respect the American people. The American people are intelligent and they love peace and democracy," he said. Gossip that Ho, who will be 77 this year, is in failing health appears unfounded. He is keen in conversation and vigorous in his arguments. He rises at 5 each morning, exercises, and begins work at 6.

Snow Storm Coming

Light snow began falling in Escanaba this morning in advance of heavy snow predicted by the U.S. Weather Bureau for the entire Upper Peninsula this afternoon and tonight. The Weather Bureau of Marquette issued heavy snow warnings and hazardous driving conditions with new snow accumulations of four to five inches. The bureau said there would be considerable blowing and drifting of snow tonight and Tuesday. The forecast called for a high of about 20 today, turning colder tonight with lows between five and 10 degrees. Snow is expected to diminish to flurries later tonight and Tuesday.

Rusk Faces Quiz By Fulbright Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whether bombing has brought North Vietnam any nearer the peace conference table. "The bombing has hurt them to a degree," Mansfield told an interviewer. "But it is questionable whether the goals sought in the bombing were achieved." There were also these comments or developments on the war: The five freshmen Republican senators, in a joint appearance, split 3 to 2 in favor of continuing the bombing. Michigan Gov. George Romney, a possible contender for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, suggested privately after a meeting with Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, that the administration may be placing too much emphasis on bombing as a means of cutting the flow of supplies from North to South.

Fire Hits McCormick Place Exhibit Hall

CHICAGO (AP) — A spectacular, rapidly spreading fire early today destroyed the main public area of McCormick Place, a giant exhibition hall on Lake Michigan just south of downtown Chicago. A security guard who discovered the blaze was credited with saving the lives of some 150 persons in the building by racing through the halls ahead of the smoke and flames and warning them to flee. The roof of the three-block-long structure caved in less than an hour after firemen arrived on the scene. A 200-foot section of the west wall buckled and collapsed. The main exhibition hall, about the size of six football fields, was a total loss, said Edward J. Lee, general manager of the hall. The hall was still burning shortly after 6 a.m. Firemen were attempting to save the lower level, which contains a theatre, restaurants and meeting rooms. Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn said the building was 50 per cent destroyed. Quinn said the northwest wing of the $35-million structure was ablaze within seven minutes after the first of a series of small explosions. He said the cause of the explosions and the fire were not known. Fire officials said the blaze broke out in a booth being constructed in the main exhibition hall for the national housewares exhibit, which was scheduled to open later today. All of the merchandise brought in to the hall for the show was reported to have been either destroyed or heavily damaged. Some 1,230 exhibit booths had been constructed in the main hall for the housewares show, said a representative of the general contracting firm which built most of the exhibits. He said the value of some of the exhibits was as high as $100,000. The structure, which covers nearly 10 acres, was opened in November 1960. Besides the main exhibit hall, the building contained a 5,000-seat theatre, food-service facilities capable of handling 30,000 persons, a retail hall, art gallery and numerous meeting rooms. McCormick Place was named for the late editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, Col. Robert R. McCormick. That newspaper had advocated the construction of "the best convention hall in America" since 1927. Recently a $15-million expansion of the hall was approved. It would have added 200,000 square feet to the existing 500,000 square feet.

PAT Ready To Start Air Service Feb. 1

Peninsula Air Transport is preparing to inaugurate six-day a week plane service between Escanaba, Sault Ste. Marie, Marquette, Iron Mountain, Traverse City, Saginaw and Lansing on Feb. 1.

R. J. "Bud" Norton, president of PAT, said that Manistique and Munising will be added to the summer schedules. Officials and pilots of the newly organized company today are in Witcheita, where they are receiving delivery of a new 10-place Cessna (eight places for passengers) for return to Escanaba on Tuesday or at the latest on Wednesday.

Norton and PAT pilots Phil Cook, Rod Carey and Geroge Landolt left for Witcheita on Sunday, and Jon Thorin, PAT director of operations, flew there from Escanaba today. They will return together to Escanaba with the PAT's new plane.

Tentative Schedule
The Cessna 402 has been specially designed for PAT's short-haul passenger service program. The craft has twin engines and speeds up to 240 miles an hour. It is fully equipped with all of the modern navigation and safety devices. Enroute weather radar, anti-icing mechanism, distance measuring, and complete automatic pilot systems are part of the plane's equipment, making it comparable to the North Central Airlines Convairs.

The service is in no way competitive to North Central, but is rather designed to supplement North Central's fine service, Norton said.

There will be three round-trip flights daily beginning on Feb. 1, according to the tentative schedule.

Flights originating at Marquette (one in the morning and one in the evening) will connect Marquette, Iron Mountain, Escanaba, Traverse City, Saginaw and Lansing.

Link Peninsula
A third round-trip flight (at mid-day) originating at Escanaba will connect Escanaba and Sault Ste. Marie, with Munising and Manistique to be added on the summer schedule.

PAT spokesmen emphasized that the schedule is tentative at this time and will need "proving out" in tests after the plane is delivered to Escanaba this week.

The company is locally owned and is the result of planning and organization by Norton and Thorin. Norton is director of administration for Clairmont Transfer Co. and Thorin is manager of the Escanaba airport and operates Thorin Aviation.

The air transport service across Lake Michigan to Traverse City, Saginaw and Lansing will provide a direct "aerial bridge" link between the Upper and Lower Peninsula that is now lacking.

Economic Boost
North Central Airlines found it necessary to abandon such "bridge" flights between the Peninsula a few years ago because of the larger equipment it uses and the few passengers that were generated.

Norton at the initial announcement of PAT's plans noted that the proposed service "should be the basis for a reasonably successful business venture — but Peninsula Air Transport Co. anticipates that, as with many such business ventures, it will sustain losses the first year or so of operation."

"A primary motive in establishing the service is that of giving whatever assistance we can to develop and improve the economic growth of the region," Norton said.

"We of Peninsula Air Transport feel that such a service can be a decisive factor in the economic betterment of the Upper Peninsula."

Retarded Get School Again

The year 1966 closed with a flurry of gifts to the John F. Kennedy School and to the retarded children of Delta County and assured another year of operating this school without debt, says Albert Valind of the Delta County Chapter, Michigan Association for Retarded Children.

"In its ninth year of operating a school for retarded children, the Association with parents doing all janitorial work and maintenance, have managed to avoid debt, and now have an enrollment of 24 children taught by two teachers and an aide with classes four hours a day, five days a week, with a hot lunch program cooked and served Thursdays by the Eagle's Auxiliary.

Among the latest gifts to the school include a new teachers desk and chair in memory of Mrs. Eva Peterson with a gift of $275 for this purpose and many gifts of learning materials from societies and clubs.

The new school will soon have a roof over the entrance through the gifts of labor and material from two local concerns.

Testimony Begins In Circuit Court Negligence Suit

Testimony in a civil suit arising from an automobile accident in 1964 began in Circuit Court this morning after selection of eight men and four women to the 12-member jury. Judge Bernard H. Davidson of Negaunee is presiding.

The suit asks $50,000 damages for injuries suffered by Karen when the car in which she was riding collided with a truck driven by DeVoy about 2:15 p.m. Dec. 29, 1964, on U.S. 2 in Ensign Township.

Raymond Sundquist, Karen's father, also asks $15,000 for payment of medical bills.

According to attorneys involved in the case, trial is expected to take about a day and a half.

Members of the jury are: Carl Westerberg, Joy Fleetwood, Emil L'Heureux and Raymond Cousineau of Escanaba; Frances Stupak, Florence Nyberg and Helen M. Strom of Gladstone; Lawrence Bunno of Brampton Township; Urban H. Hebert of Ensign Township; Roy Dalgaard of Fairbanks Township; Carroll C. Tatrow of Garden Township and Richard LaChapelle of Maple Ridge Township.

Oslund Heads Sport Car Club

Mel Oslund of Escanaba, who has been a sports car enthusiast for a decade and who has contributed a lot to organized sports car activities in the mid-Upper Peninsula in that period, was elected president of the Delta Sports Car Club for the sixth year at its annual dinner meeting at the Delta Supper Club on Saturday night.

There were 30 in attendance, with participation from as far as Calumet.

Also elected: Bob Haddock, Escanaba, vice president; Mrs. Mel Oslund, secretary-treasurer; George Matt, Gladstone, three year director; Bill Erickson, Escanaba, two year director, and Don Hendrickson, Gladstone, one year director.

The club planned its 10th annual Icechana, a winter sports car frolic on Bay de Noc Ice, for Sunday, Feb. 12, with George Matt as general chairman.

Romania Taxes The Childless

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Communist Romania has introduced additional income taxes for childless couples and all those over 25 who are unmarried, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported from Bucharest.

The agency said the decree of the state council went into force Jan. 1. It follows another in October which made divorces difficult to obtain and which banned abortions.

Families with more than three children have special allowances.

All these measures followed an alarming decrease in births in Romania, the agency said. According to statistics, in the past 10 years births decreased from 14 to 6 per 1,000.

New Type Park

The bird watchers and flower clubs got a little annoyed at times with elements delaying the creation of the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore in Alger County, but the Lakeshore is a reality now, fully authorized by Congress, and it emerges in final form a much better park than the original one proposed in 1961.

For this public benefit, credit is due to U.S. Senator Philip A. Hart, the author of the park, to Congressman Raymond Clevenger, who helped get House approval, to the National Park Service, the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, the Michigan Department of Conservation and especially to the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co.

Cliffs is the private land owner most affected by the park project. It was greatly concerned that the original proposal would have taken 18,000 acres of its best hardwood timberland; 20 per cent of the sawtimber productivity upon which it bases the perpetual programming for its Forrest Center sawmill.

Cliffs, which supported the park project from the beginning and which bargained only on what form the park should take in an effort to help the park without crippling its big forest industry enterprise, had help from Forum On Resources of Upper Michigan and some other agencies. But mostly the public attitude was indiscriminate approval; it was so pleased to have a national lakeshore park in the Upper Peninsula as a bolster for its recreation business that it said "Goody-goody" and not "Let's inspect the proposal."

It is difficult to deal with federal agencies on other than their own terms, but the federal agencies here involved were all cooperative and accommodating. They authorized a rather new concept of organization for a lakeshore park, with the federal government acquiring ownership of the prime recreation zone along the south shore of Lake Superior, and all the major scenic attractions, and with Cliffs retaining its timberlands in a southern "buffer" zone and managing them for wood production and for recreation.

There's also to be cutting under perpetual federal rights by Cliffs in a small part (one square mile) of the park's finest timber in the recreation zone and Cliffs' Chief Forester David West is confident that it will be one of the most interesting things in the park for visitors and we agree with him completely.

A forest is a living thing, a sort of "high rise" garden, it grows up and dies and falls down. It is a majestic thing at maturity in a fairly even age stand, but this is a climax condition that is transient. When the white men first came to the Midwest much of the forest was mature and magnificent, bearing the accumulated growth of centuries. But this sort of attraction cannot endure.

It must be replaced by a managed forest, which is also a thing of beauty and which can be made enduring by the removal of mature trees and the encouragement of growth in the residual stand. That the Pictured Rocks Lakeshore is to have this management in its buffer zone and an example of it in its recreation zone is a triumph for development of a new park concept, preserving a great natural resource and using it fully for multiple purposes.

Michigan State University's recreational specialists have been working for several years to plan a series of major recreational complexes for the Upper Peninsula to attract and entertain tourists. One of their proposals has been a wood industry complex where visitors might see some of the operation which transforms a tree into hundreds of useful products ranging from chemicals and charcoal to structural wood and finishing veneers.

Pictured Rocks Lakeshore will provide a good show of this kind through the cooperative venture of the National Park Service and Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. We're going to eat our cake and have it.

Taut But Not Happy

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Some sources who know members of President Johnson's White House staff insist that these days it is not a "happy ship."

They believe the resignation of top aide Bill D. Moyers focuses fresh attention on the problem, even though they do not question the legitimacy of the personal-financial reasons he gave for his impending departure.

Moyers is said to have been the center of White House infighting from time to time. So, of course, is Myron Watson, the President's appointments secretary and political helper. Internal staff descriptions: of still another aide, Joseph Califano, "sometimes include the word 'ruthless.'"

The President does not seem to have been as successful as he was earlier in his term at giving some of his aides the kind of direct line to him which provides satisfaction rich enough to blur intra-staff differences.

When the open line exists, each man thus privileged feels he has a special niche in the President's sphere and tends to fret less over the competing activities of the others.

Moyers' resignation raises other major points. Since he is the last of the original Johnson men to go, it has a painful air of finality about it. Without his wide-ranging and often imaginative services, the President is left largely in the hands of "achiever" technicians with a low quotient of creative ideas.

Those who know staff people assert that it is not enough to argue that turnover is expected. White House is healthy and normal and every president has it. They think Johnson is suffering more than his fair share.

"Who is left and who is going to come?" lamented one long-time friend of the President.

A definite feeling exists among some knowledgeable sources that the President in recent times has lost a good deal more of what was never really a strong power to attract good men—not only to his immediate staff but to vital department and agency posts all over Washington.

As to why this should be so, the speculation ranges widely. On the heels of Moyers' announcement, some who know and deal with the staff could not quite shake off the idea that Johnson may have passed a signal that he does not intend to run again in 1968.

Inevitably, there is a certain tendency also to lay heavy blame at his door as too hard a taskmaster. The complaints—old in flavor by now—center on two things—brutal hours and rough treatment.

Johnson really lives two days in one, with a nap in between. He brushes past mealtimes almost as if eating were a flaw in human behavior. He expects staff people to imitate this performance. On his fall trip to Asia, accompanying aide Moyers averaged just three hours of sleep a night for a fortnight or more.

Subtly, another factor may be creeping in. For all the loyalty some aides have given and are giving, they may be consciously or unconsciously affected by the President's diminished image in the public's eyes. That image has suffered acutely on many counts in 1966.

Furthermore, since Lyndon Johnson is so much the one-man band, staff men are not bound to him as closely as might otherwise be expected. To call them "intimates" is hardly accurate for the most part, though Moyers may have been a singular exception.

Plainly, however, Moyers' resignation has added material to the growing puzzle of why the President's conduct of his office.

Ask The Doctor Says: Dentist Wonders In Unborn Child's World

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Susan writes that her two front teeth became abscessed after being chipped in a fall. Her dentist tried to save them; even treated the nerve; but nothing helped and they finally had to be extracted. She has been wearing a removable plate with two front teeth on it, but she wants to know: can two new teeth be transplanted into this space?

Alas, Susan, your problem comes too soon. So far, replants and transplants have been successful, but mostly in the laboratory, on laboratory animals.

Techniques aren't anywhere near as sophisticated as those for other organ transplants. Recent accounts of vital organ transplants are fantastic! Rate of development in this field of medicine has prompted one way to say that when he gets old he's going to have a whole new body made for himself.

But so far, the tooth is defiant. For scores of years successful cases have been reported, but as yet routine transplants and replants of human teeth are not in the dental repertoire.

One giant step has been experimentation with "tooth banks." Experimental animals' (hamsters') teeth have been extracted and quick frozen for long periods of time. Some were then replanted into their original sockets, others were transplanted. Percentage of success has been encouragingly high. In a large number of cases, though, the teeth became abscessed, areas around them infected, and there was a tendency of the host to "reject" them.

It's conceivable, though, that some day, not too far off, when a tooth is extracted, a donor tooth of similar size, shape and color could be requisitioned from a tooth bank and transplanted into the empty socket. It could be fixed in place temporarily with a splint, the host treated with antibiotics, and in a few days a new tooth will have "grown."

But, Susan, don't wait until the new technique is perfected. Let your dentist make you a fixed bridge to fill the gap. Fixed bridges are far superior to removable ones, where they can be used. They function better and cosmetic results can be excellent.

People, Events Of Yesteryears

The board of directors of the First National Bank elected the following men as officers to serve during the year: Leslie French, president; George N. Harder, vice-president; Eugene G. Royce, cashier; Frederick Royce, Henry Peterson and Earle Harris, assistant cashiers.

After considerable discussion, members of the city council confirmed action taken by the board of public works to raise the salaries of a number of employees of the municipal lighting plant.

High school students began to take their semester examinations. They will last for four days, and on the fifth, Friday, the students will have the day off in order to participate in the Michigan Day program.

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt

The world of the unborn child is not as dull and monotonous as you might suppose. Even in the uterus he can, after about four months of gestation, open and close his eyes and, if the mother stands unclothed in a well-lighted room, he can differentiate between diffuse light and total darkness. He can also hear not only his mother's heart beat (a very reassuring sound), but also outside noises such as loud music.

Since he is entirely surrounded by fluid he can move as freely as an underwater swimmer but, with all his thrashing around, there is no danger that he will get tangled up in the umbilical cord and strangle. The cord is made fairly stiff until after birth has been completed by the pressure of circulating blood just as a fire hose that is in use is stiffer than one that is empty. The baby's movements will not be felt until about the fifth month when he is large enough to reach the front and back of the uterus simultaneously.

Babies learn by stimulation of their senses and the sense of smell does not develop in the uterus but begins to be manifest when they are about 10 months old. That is why a baby who would eat anything you put into his mouth may, at the age of 10 or 11 months, suddenly reject foods he took before without question.

Babies learn to swallow before they are born and gulp down the amniotic fluid that surrounds them. If they gulp too fast they have been known to get hiccups. This can be more distressing to the mother than to the baby.

Some of the suitcase-sized handbags women carry should be classified as unconcealed weapons.

Nothing in this world is impossible—except some of the weather we've had this winter.

Omar Sharif, the great actor who portrays Dr. Zhivago in the movie, is one of the most enthusiastic bridge players we have ever met. He came to the Fall Nationals with Benito Garrozzo, a member of Italy's world championship bridge team.

The presence of these distinguished bridge players created a problem. The main event was the Blue Ribbon Pairs which is restricted to a very few top players. The League wanted to ask them to play but feared that the qualified players might object. The players solved that problem for the League by getting up a petition to ask that the distinguished pair be allowed to play. Needless to say, the League was delighted to go along with petition.

They were also allowed to play their system as devised by Garrozzo. In this system the opening one club bid shows at least 17 points and is forcing, so that Garrozzo's one club opening on the hand shown today was standard for them. So was Sharif's one no-trump response. This call showed four control points based on counting one ace as two control points and each king as one control.

This system saved lots of time in the rest of the bidding. Garrozzo was looking at two aces and three kings and he knew that his partner's four controls showed two aces. He could use the ace of hearts for a discard of his fourth spade and the ace of clubs made the rest of his hand good. Garrozzo closed the bidding at seven no-trump.

The East-West hands and opening lead aren't shown because they do not matter. There were 13 tricks without bothering with the jacks of spades and clubs.

CARELESS CUSTOMERS

Five-year-old Billy, on his own at the supermarket, took energetic command of a shopping cart. For about 15 minutes he trotted along joyfully, pushing the cart in front of him. But at last, veering around a corner, he rammed the cart into an unsuspecting woman shopper.

Painfully injured, the woman sued the management and won a substantial judgment. The court said there was plenty of time for store employees to have noticed Billy's antics and brought him to a halt.

Case No. Two:
A woman shopper was standing at the checkout counter, her arms laden with groceries, when a heavy can of peaches slipped from her grasp. It landed squarely on the toe of a man behind her. And he too sought to collect from the management for his pain and anguish.

But this time, the victim's claim was denied. The court said this was the kind of accident that not even careful supervision by the market would have prevented.

It is not rare, on a store's premises, for one customer to carelessly cause injury to another. For assorted reasons, the victim may sue not the customer who injured him but the management.

As the above cases illustrate, the store may indeed be held liable—but only when the danger could have been reasonably foreseen and reasonably prevented.

What if there is some inherent danger in the merchandise itself? That adds an extra dimension to the store's policing responsibilities. Thus:

A gun shop that allowed a patron to manipulate a loaded shotgun was held liable when he accidentally shot another customer.

And a sports shop that let golfers take practice swings in an unguarded area was held liable when one man's club hit another man's head.

Suppose the customer is not merely careless but reckless or even vicious. As a rule that is not considered foreseeable, so the store is not to blame.

For example, a store was held not liable when a man suddenly and deliberately shoved a woman through a plate glass window. The court said the management need not guard against an act that, in ordinary experience, simply does not happen.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to help the woman with the jealous husband. Mine was like that, too, and for absolutely no reason. Finally I asked him to tell me why he was so suspicious. He replied, "Because I'm insecure. You don't pay enough attention to me."

That evening he asked me to listen for the telephone while he took a bath. I told him to heck with the telephone, I wanted to keep him company. I perched myself on the rim of the tub and described My Day. (I ignored his sighs of boredom.) After his bath he went to the den to read the newspaper and I curled up in his lap and stayed there until he asked me to please get off because I was getting heavy. Then I insisted that he come to the kitchen and keep me company while I did the dishes.

The next day I telephoned him at work three times to say I was lonesome for him and to please come straight home. He said he'd be home at 6:15. When he arrived at 6:25 I asked him why he was late. I said I was worried.

For one solid week I carried on this absurd routine until finally he asked me to leave him alone. I told him I was only trying to make him feel secure. He said, "I am so secure now I am suffocating. Please get off my back."

Things are normal once more and I no longer see a single trace of jealousy. —VICTORIOUS

Dear Vic: Thanks for letting us in on the Great Experiment. The wife with adhesive qualities does not make her husband feel secure, she merely underscores her own insecurity. Moreover, she displays a sorry lack of confidence which can cause bitter resentment. Too many people never learn that the surest way to put out a fire is to smother it.

Dear Ann Landers: I recently read the letter from the mother who lambasted teachers who "waste" school time trying to build character instead of concentrating on the three R's. I wish the mother who wrote that letter could stand behind me for 24 hours. For the past 30 years I have been working with delinquents and criminals. While many lawbreakers are poorly educated, some have had excellent schooling. They get into trouble not because they are uneducated but because they had no character training.

I would like to tell the complaining mother that she should be thankful for teachers who talk about honesty and integrity because some students never learn about these things at home. The child who grows up with no character training and no example to follow is a menace to society. One of the best definitions I have ever heard is this one: "Character is what you are when you think nobody is looking." You have my permission to print my letter and my name. I am Sheriff of New Haven County.—J. EDWARD SLAVIN

Dear Sheriff: Many thanks for a superb letter. I hope that thousands of teachers from coast to coast will see it—and I'm sure they will. A recent survey made by the National Educational Association revealed that this column is read by more teachers than any other column in the nation's newspapers.

Confidential to Needed An Unbiased Opinion: You should not have discussed your personal troubles with those two. The only people who will listen objectively to both sides of an argument are the neighbors—and to them it's purely entertainment.

Red Bloc Trade Bridge Planned By Financiers

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rockefeller brothers and Cyrus S. Eaton Jr., representing two of the nation's richest families, plan to build a better trade bridge between the Western Hemisphere and Communist countries in Eastern Europe.

The financial alliance, linking Wall Street and the Midwest, was disclosed Sunday and confirmed by Richard S. Aldrich of the Rockefeller interests.

It will involve cooperation between the International Basic Economy Corp., controlled by the Rockefeller brothers, and Tower International, Inc., headed by Eaton, a Cleveland industrialist.

Aldrich, a vice president and director of IBEC, said his organization's objective "is to improve the standard of living of the peoples of the world."

"An initiative that creates a commercial and industrial dialogue between the East and the West cannot help but contribute."

The trade exchange plan — encompassing the United States, Canada and Latin America — brings together the enormous investment skills of the Rockefeller family and the almost unique relationship the Eatons have with the Soviet bloc.

Cyrus S. Eaton Sr., long an advocate of closer ties between the United States and the Soviet Union, has cultivated some support behind the iron curtain by his trips to Moscow. He has entertained Soviet leaders, including former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

In today's New York Times, a two-page Soviet advertisement stresses that ideological differences are no barrier to trade, and assures American businessmen that Soviet foreign trade organizations "are also ready to strike up relations with you."

Taxpayers Are Offered Help

Roland P. Larsen, administrative representative of the Escanaba Internal Revenue Service office, Room 203, Post Office Building, announces that taxpayer assistance for this area will be given every Monday through the federal income tax filing period which ends April 17.

Larsen also said that telephone assistance will be available Monday only from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. by calling 786-4183.

Income tax returns indicating a refund should be mailed directly to the Internal Revenue Service Center, 222 East Central Parkway, Cincinnati, Ohio 45298. Taxpayers who owe tax should continue mailing their return to: District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

was the first major offensive by U.S. forces in the delta but the 10-day sweep of the Thanh Phu Peninsula mangrove swamps proved unproductive.

Reds Lose 648 U.S. Marines, who launched the operation with a big amphibious landing and helicopter assault, reported killing 21 Viet Cong and taking 14 prisoners in all. Then the Marines withdrew from the area.

In Operation Cedar Falls, the biggest ground sweep of the war, American troops pushing through the jungle and scrub of the Iron Triangle reported 41 Viet Cong killed and one captured in a series of sporadic contacts with snipers and small enemy units Sunday.

This brought to 648 the number of enemy troops killed, captured or surrendered since the operation started Jan. 8 in an area 20 to 30 miles north of Saigon. Of these, U.S. headquarters said, 399 Viet Cong were killed, 66 were taken prisoner and 180 gave up under the Chieu Hoi (Open Arms) campaign.

Business Aid Given $36,125

The Office of Economic Opportunity announces a grant of $36,125 for professional staff for Small Business Development Centers in the 15 counties in the Upper Peninsula.

Robert I. Shackford, acting director of the OEO Great Lakes Region, stated that funds would be administered by UPCA in Escanaba.

Small Business Development Centers were established to bring opportunity to businessmen and to develop jobs for the jobless. They are operated in conjunction with the six community action centers in the Upper Peninsula. In the past they have concentrated primarily on loan assistance but are now leaning more heavily toward management assistance.

The UPCA delegate body consists of 14 appointees from county boards, six representatives from the community action agencies, and four appointees from the universities. Joseph Tuma is executive director.

Book Aids Legislator

LANSING (AP) — Now there's a book on how to be a legislator—one of those 148 citizens who make the laws of Michigan—and of course the first step is to win the election.

The book says the winner is then "transformed into a public figure from whom great decisions are expected and on whom sometimes overwhelming responsibilities are imposed."

The reason for the 91-page book, put out by the Legislative Council, is to save the new lawmaker time by quickly acquainting him with the many practical things he must know before he starts making decisions.

It warns, though, that "there is no body of learned literature or discipline in all of academia to prepare a legislator for the philosophical and social challenges heaped upon him suddenly by the electorate."

The book's contents range from a map of Lansing to philosophy on decision making.

"This is something we think has been needed for many years," said Donald Hoenshell, director of the Legislative Service Bureau.

Holy Name's Debaters Win At Negaunee

Holy Name High School debaters chalked up a perfect score at the second tournament of the season at Negaunee on Saturday. The varsity won four out of four rounds against Escanaba Area, Iron Mountain, Ironwood and Newberry.

Seniors Jacqueline LaPointe and Mary Prinski form the affirmative team, and Betsy Stearns and Linda Blahnik the negative team on the proposition: "Resolved, that the foreign aid program of the United States be limited to non-military assistance."

The junior varsity teams including Richard Armstrong, Mary Beth Tanguay, Annette Theoret, and Connie Schoen scored two wins and two losses.

The final tournament of the season will be held at Northern Michigan University on Feb. 10 and 11. If the Holy Name varsity debaters win two more rounds at the finals, they will have won 75% of all debates, and the school may receive a plaque.

The Holy Name debating teams are under the direction of Sister Mary Roman SSND.

The Gladstone High School varsity team coached by Jim Boman, composed of Dorell Butch and Martha Borden lost to Marquette and Manistique; and the negative team composed of John Burk and Blake Coven defeated Menominee and lost to Iron Mountain.

Mrs. Clara H. Lang's debate teams from Escanaba Area High School won two and lost two, defeating Kingsford and Munising and losing to Negaunee and Holy Name, for a season record to date of five wins and three losses.

Escanaba Area affirmative debaters were Cheryl LaBrie and Judy Young and negative debaters Robert Mosendfelder and John Walbridge.

Several Hundred Voters Placed On Inactive List

Man Frozen For Later Life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A California Cryonics group says it will give the science world details of how it reportedly froze the body of a man who died Thursday in the hope it can be brought back to life later.

Members of the Cryonics Society of California have refused to identify the man or say where the experiment took place.

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner said an elderly Los Angeles man died of lung cancer Thursday. The paper was told the body was frozen immediately and a machine used to keep the heart beating. The blood reportedly was replaced with dimethyl sulfoxide and glycerol and the body put in a plastic coffin under refrigeration.

Robert Nelson, president of the Cryonics group, said of the cancer victim:

"It was his hope to contribute to a scientific experimentation. He hoped that his body can be revived with future techniques at a time when a cure for cancer is available."

Lunar Orbiter To Seek Best Apollo Target

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said that a camera-equipped spacecraft will be launched next month to take a sharper look at the most promising potential landing sites on the moon.

Lunar Orbiter 3 will carry the wide-angle and telephoto cameras as it whirls around the moon scanning only the most promising of the potential Apollo spacecraft landing sites photographed by Lunar orbiters 1 and 2.

NASA tentatively scheduled the new launch, from Cape Kennedy, Fla., for Feb. 3 or the four days following.

"Unlike the earlier flights which represented mainly a site search in the zone of the moon in which Apollo landings are planned, this will be a site confirmation mission," said Clifford H. Nelson, project manager at NASA's Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.

Of 13 primary and 17 secondary sites that have been photographed by the two spacecraft, Nelson said about 10 look especially promising.

NASA made public Friday more than 30 photographs taken by Lunar Orbiter 2 in late November. Among the new pictures was one showing the whitish crater left when Ranger 8 plunged into the moon two years ago, and another showing the trail, a third of a mile long, left by a 40-foot-wide rock that had rolled from a crater rim down a slope to the crater's level interior.

Romney Salesmanship Faces Major Test In Push For Income Tax

By GENE SCHROEDER

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney, who used to sell automobiles, is about to become a salesman once more.

Rut all the governor's persuasive powers may not be enough to sell the 1967 model of a product the Legislature is not exactly eager to buy — a state income tax.

As persistent as he is consistent on the subject, Romney once again proposed in his state of the state message today an overhaul of Michigan's tax structure.

Although Romney failed to use the politically painful words "income tax," the former American Motors president made it clear that's what he's trying to sell.

When the governor comes up with his budget proposals a couple of weeks hence, he's expected by many observers to recommend a personal income tax of 3 per cent and a corporate income tax of about 5 per cent.

As in the past, the income tax proposal will be coupled with a recommendation that other levies be eliminated or reduced — such as the sales tax on food and drugs along with the business activities tax, which both Republicans and Democrats have agreed should be dropped.

Few Options

Executive office sources say the whole package will come as standard equipment, however, and will not be offered in a stripped-down model. Only a few optional items may be suggested to the Legislature.

These may include such features as a choice between eliminating city income taxes or allowing them to ride piggy-back on the state levy as a percentage of the state income tax.

Under one such system, the state would collect a higher tax — probably 4 per cent on personal income and 6 per cent on business — and return part of the revenue to local communities.

Underlining his determination to get fiscal reform this time, Romney said in his message:

"Our greatest single challenge is to secure the financial future of state and local government in Michigan. Tax action must be the No. 1 job of this legislative session."

Romney has painful memories of his first attempt to get tax reform.

Failed In 1963
It was 1963. Republicans controlled the Senate and the House. When the showdown vote came, a bloc of GOP conservatives joined with a number of Democrats to send tax reform down the drain.

Most of the hard-line conservatives have left the capitol scene, either through retirement or at the demand of voters. But those few still around are expected to fight an income tax to the bitter end.

They are likely to argue that Romney is crying wolf in saying that the state is about to plunge into debt.

In his first year in office, Romney warned in 1965 that "within two years under the present tax structure with relatively good yield and with only present program levels (we will) once more be in a deficit position."

Yet, the treasury surplus was $57 million in 1964, $136 million in 1965 and $167 million in 1966 — without tax reform.

It appears to most financial experts, however, that the moment of truth is fast approaching. Because of a decline in auto sales, and the resulting slump in sales tax revenues, the surplus probably will fall to $50 million next June.

Surplus In Danger

"The 1967-68 budget now being prepared will require about $110 million in new revenue merely to continue the programs now underway — merely to stand still," Romney warns, adding:

"But I do not intend to present a standstill budget for the coming fiscal year. New programs are urgently needed in the public interest. And new sources of revenue will be required to pay for them."

Democrats and Republicans have mixed feelings about the subject.

Accomplishing fiscal reform for Michigan — something two Democratic governors failed to do — would be a feather in Romney's cap and might enhance his national image as a potential 1968 GOP presidential candidate.

This would make Democrats unhappy.

But blame for adopting an unpopular state income tax would fall hardest on those in control of the Legislature, especially House members up for re-election in 1968.

And this would make Republicans unhappy.

Plate Sales Slow

LANSING (AP) — Secretary of State James Hare sees long delays next month if people don't buy their car license plates soon.

He says sales were 771,636 at last count this year down from 843,860 at the same point in 1966.

Transit Strike Accord Reached In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negotiators for the Philadelphia Transportation Co. and the Transport Workers Union reached a tentative agreement today on a new contract for some 5,000 TWU workers, thus ending a 27½-hour-old transit strike.

The agreement, which gives workers a 51-cent-an-hour wage increase over the term of the two-year contract, was completed during a four-hour session also attended by city officials.

Albert Lyons, president of the transportation company, said at a news conference following the announcement that the company will ask the Pennsylvania Public Utilities Commission for a fare adjustment at the commission's meeting today in Harrisburg to underwrite the new contract.

Lyons would not speculate on the nature of any fare increase over the present 25-cent rate, saying that it would be up to the commission.

LIGHTING UP the battlefield is an increasingly effective technique in night air operations over Viet Nam with the aid of a powerful airborne light source. Providing for the first time a constant, long-lasting light covering a wide area, the system from an altitude of 12,000 feet is capable of illuminating an area two miles in diameter four times brighter than full moonlight. Science Might Grow A Finger

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A University of Michigan scientist believes that with more wide-ranging research man might find the ability to grow another finger or make a single suit that adjusts to weather changes.

Dr. John Platt, associate director of the U-M Mental Health Research Institute, made his observations today in an article in Science magazine.

"We develop some things well and others not at all," said Platt. "Why shouldn't someone make up a single suit that would shed rain and that we could ruffle up for comfort in any weather, as a bird ruffles its feathers? A bird needs no suitcase."

Platt said the reason is simply that no one, not even the Army, has bothered to put a task force on the problem.

"Scientists are not really innovators, and neither are industrial companies and government agencies and their research-development teams," said Platt, who is a research biophysicist. He added:

"We seem to have collective taboos against certain types of development, like the taboo against work on oral contraceptives before 1950."

Scientists, he said, concentrate on certain subjects while almost entirely neglecting others of equal interest, importance and ripeness for development.

For example, Platt observe, some 400 government and industrial projects dealing with optical laser reportedly are underway, utilizing several thousand scientists and engineers.

"The motorcar was developed with less than 40 manufacturing and development teams," he said. "One can't help wondering whether everything important to discover in the field of lasers might not have been discovered just as fast with only 40 projects."

There are many neglected research areas, Platt contended, such as regeneration and rejuvenation.

Since lower animals can regenerate parts of their bodies—some even the eyes and optic nerves—a study of "tissue inducers" or the restoration of embryonic biochemistry might permit a useful measure of regeneration for man," Platt said.

"We'll never know if man can grow not merely skin over a stump, but bones and muscles, until a few dozen scientists get to work on it," he added.

On the subject of rejuvenation, Platt asked:

Can man preserve or restore sexual activity and enjoyment after age 50 or more?

Could genetic processes of aging be reversed or delayed?

Who would have the courage and love of humanity to try to organize an American Rejuvenation Society as rich as the American Cancer Society for the support of research?

With scientific diversity, Platt suggested, yesterday's science fiction could become tomorrow's reality.

Major German Car Builders Cut Worker Forces

RUSSELSHEIM, Germany (AP) — A spokesman for the workers' union at the Opel car plant said Sunday that 3,000 workers will be dismissed by the company.

The spokesman said a large number office and clerical employees were included in those facing dismissal.

A slump in sales in the German motor industry was the cause of the layoffs, management was quoted as saying.

It is the second notice of layoffs in the Opel plant, a subsidiary of General Motors Corp. At the end of December 1,400 workers were laid off. At the same time Opel announced a series of staggered production cutbacks lasting to the end of March.

Other major motor companies also announced similar production cuts in the flagging German car industry.

Ford-Werke A.G. of Cologne, the wholly owned German subsidiary of the Ford Motor Co., said it would close production on a total of 13 days this month and next.

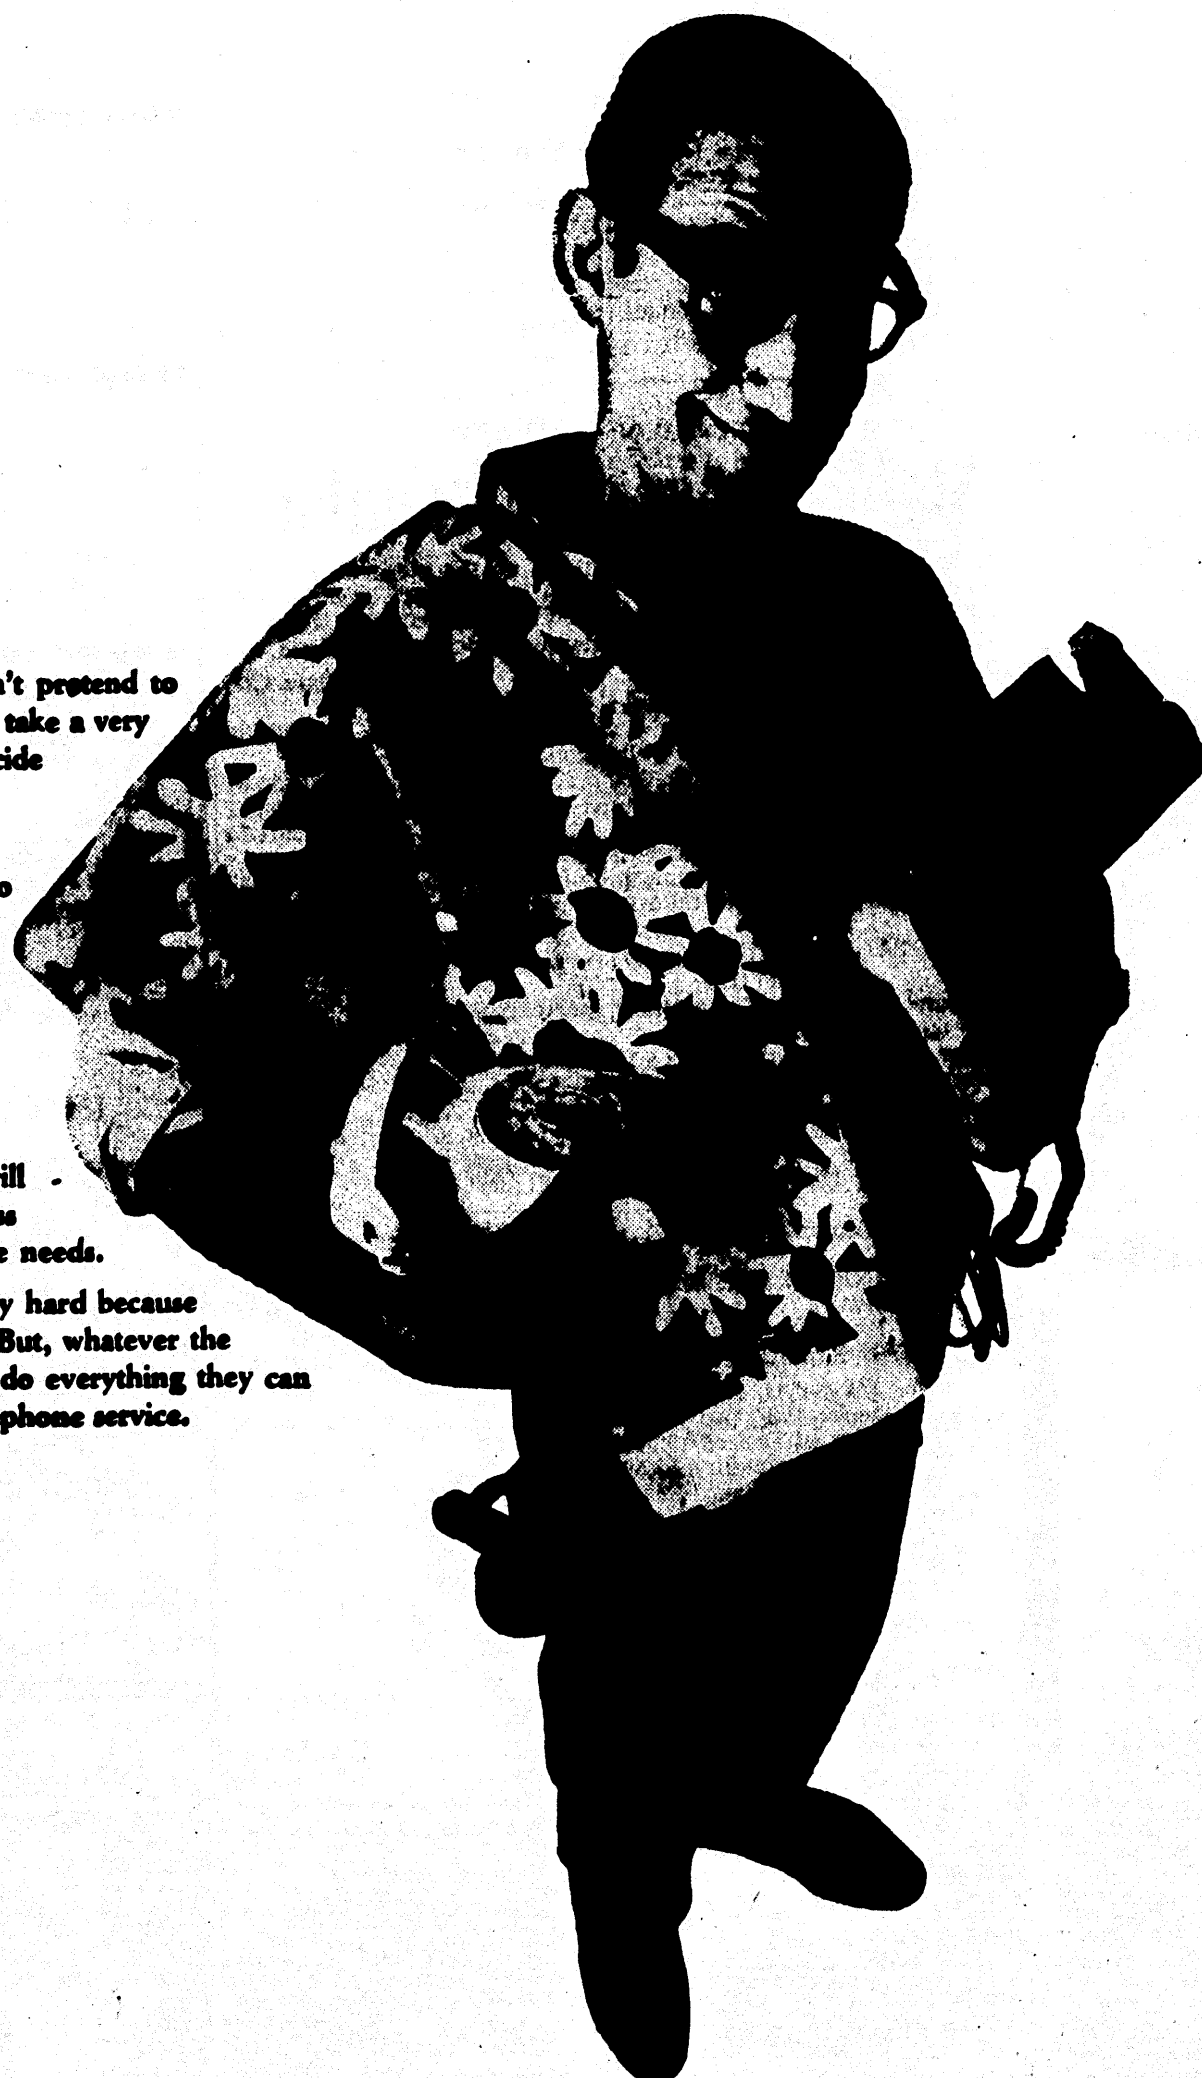

Volkswagen, Germany's largest auto producer, began the first of a series of staggered cutbacks this week. The firm said it intended stopping production on 14 days in the first three months of this year.

A total of 100,000 workers are involved in the stoppages. The firm blamed sliding sales for the forced curtailments.

Diane E. Alm Bride Of Michael C. Davis

An altar adorned with vases of white mums and pompons and pews decorated with white satin ribbons was the setting for the double ring ceremony at St. Patrick's Church Jan. 7 at 11 a.m. uniting Diane Elizabeth Alm and Michael Charles Davis in Holy Matrimony. Rev. James Pepin officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alm, 1211 N. 16th St. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Davis, 210 N. 19th St.

White Velvet
Escorted down the aisle on the arm of her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white velvet fashioned with scoop neckline and long tapering sleeves. Re-embroidered alencon lace encircled the empire waistline and two bows attached the chapel train at the neckline.

Her silk illusion veil was gathered with a crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations cascading with ivy foliage and centered with a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. Joseph Snell, Arlington Heights, Ill., was matron of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were Mrs. Jerry Imboden, Lake Orion, Mich., cousin of the bride, and Miss Sue Johnson, Escanaba, a close friend.

Moss Green
The Attendant's gowns were floor length gowns of moss green tulle with moss green velvet bodices and elbow length sleeves. The scoop necklines were fashioned with long flowing back panels and headpieces were satin bows with moss green circlet veils. They carried cascading arrangements of shades of yellow and bronze pompons.

Norman Menard, of Milwaukee, served as bestman for the bridegroom and Steve Davis, Escanaba, brother of the bridegroom and Ralph Johnson, Escanaba, served as groomsmen. John Alm, brother of the bride, Fran Corey, Laredo A. F. B. Texas, and Richard Seymour, Milwaukee, performed ushering duties.

Mother's Attire
The mother of the bride wore a three piece raspberry-ribbon knit suit with matching accessories and she was presented a corsage of pink roses and carnations.

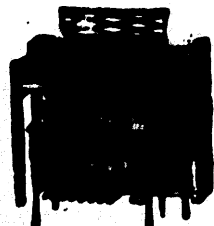

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a three piece knit suit of tope and grey with grey accessories. She was presented a pale green cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. Carl Davis Sr., grandmother of the bridegroom, was also presented a corsage of carnations.

The reception was held at the Terrace from 4 to 8 p.m. The couple who went on a honeymoon trip to an undisclosed destination, will make their home at 3717 Tilden, Laredo A. F. B. Texas.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Escanaba Area High School and the bridegroom, a 1963 graduate of Escanaba Area High School is also a graduate of Ferris State College in Big Rapids where he was affiliated with the Alpha Delta Chi Fraternity. He is now stationed with the United States Air Force in Laredo, Texas.

Doctors Still Fear Freedom Loss From Growth In Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the American Medical Association says that after 6½ months of Medicare the nation's doctors are voicing few objections—publicly or privately—to the federal health program for the elderly.

"In the beginning, there were some rebellious ones who spoke as if they wouldn't cooperate," with Medicare, said Dr. Charles L. Hudson.

But now, he said, "I just don't hear the number of remarks here are not so many who say they won't participate" in portions of the program.

Have doctors found that Medicare is not the bureaucratic monster they feared?

Dr. Hudson, interviewed during his appearance at a medical conference, smiled and paused for a moment.

What doctors were fighting against, he said, was an intangible thing. "It was, he said, 'whether you were going to lose your professional freedom. You have to let it run a while to see how obnoxious it is. 'The unknown is always worse than the fact.'"

Yet, Dr. Hudson emphasized, the medical profession is far from happy with Medicare.

For one thing, he said, many doctors "are really hot under the collar" about a certification form they must sign saying a patient they want put in the hospital actually needs hospitalization.

"They think this is demanding," Dr. Hudson said. Doctors know hospital beds are scarce, he said, and when they say a patient needs a bed, it should be assumed that he does. He said the AMA plans to seek elimination of the provision by an amendment of the law.

Dr. Hudson, a silver-haired, gentle-mannered staff physician of the Cleveland Ohio Clinic, said also that American doctors fear Medicare will be expanded.

"There are apprehensions about the long run," he said.

"We would abhor a national health plan" under which the federal government would pay for all health care and doctors would receive salaries or would be paid on a per-patient basis, he said.

Cargo Record Set On Great Lakes

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — U.S. and Canadian bulk fleets on the Great Lakes shipped record amounts of iron ore, coal, grain and limestone in 1966.

The total was 210,125,675 net tons, compared with the previous high of 199,606,332 tons recorded in 1963, during the Korean War.

Excavation crews in foreground are preparing for a natural gas transmission line. After the pipe is laid, the landscape will be restored to its original beauty while, unseen, the gas line taps the second largest reservoir of the resource in the world—estimated at 39 trillion cubic feet—discovered at Slochteren in the northern part of the country.

Detroit Gases Impair Driving

DETROIT (AP) — A study by the U.S. Public Health Service indicates that concentrations of poisonous carbon monoxide may be the cause of accidents on Detroit's freeways during traffic jams.

Detroit and six other major cities were included in the study. Morton Sterling, chief of Detroit's air pollution control agency said 98 per cent of the carbon monoxide in the community comes from automobiles. He added:

"If it is causing safety problems, we have to get rid of the thing that causes it—the auto engine—or modify it."

Sterling said Detroit's carbon monoxide gas level was among the highest found in the survey. In one freeway test, scientists found 120 parts per million of air.

The danger limit for exposure to carbon monoxide in a factory has been set at 50 parts per million in a 40-hour work week.

The Public Health Service has expressed fears that carbon monoxide affects the brain and the nervous system of a driver at concentrations lower than those previously considered dangerous.

Negro Premier Takes Bahama Reins Today

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — These sunny islands get their first Negro government today. But despite the political questions, life proceeded as before.

Tourists who jammed Nassau rode down Bay Street apparently as oblivious to the political turnover as were the horses wearing straw hats and pulling pink surreys.

But among residents in the 700-island chain stretching from near Florida to near Cuba, the talk was about Premier-designate Lynden O. Pindling, who pulled the election upset of Bahamas' history.

Will his party embark on radical policies that could rock a tourist-laden prosperity boat or will it tread cautiously?

In the native straw market, one of the women who make hats to sell to tourists, remarked: "We have a government now that is for the people and not for themselves. Now we are going to have price controls and low-cost houses and better schools and hospital facilities."

In bigger business circles, there was some apprehension. Pindling, 36, London-trained barrister whose Progressive Liberal party won a resounding election victory over the white-dominated United Bahamian party said: "We are not going to cut our throat. Business interests, tourists and investors have nothing to fear."

"We will open our doors to legitimate English and American industry and thus take the present stranglehold away from the minority that controls the economic welfare of the country."

The premier-designate said tourism, the principal Bahamas industry, should be increased by extending airline, cruiseship and harbor facilities and providing convention quarters.

Last year, 850,000 tourists visited this sub-tropical haven only minutes by plane from the United States.

Pindling becomes the first Negro chief executive of this British colony of 115,000 Negroes and 30,000 whites. Yet, the race issue rarely reached the surface in the election campaign.

Colleges Merge

OWOSSO (AP) — Merger of Eastern Pilgrim College of Allentown, Pa., with Owosso College has been approved by trustees of the two Holiness Church-affiliated institutions.

Eastern Pilgrim, a four-year college devoted primarily to ministerial training, has a slightly smaller enrollment than Owosso College's 240. Plans call for merger to be made by June 1.

Eastern Pilgrim's 20,000-volume library will be moved to Owosso.

Lurleen Takes Governor Oath

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Lurleen Wallace takes her husband's place as governor of Alabama today in a change of command which may send him back to the campaign trail as candidate for president.

With outgoing Gov. George C. Wallace at her side, the blonde, housewife takes the oath in midafternoon as the first woman governor in Alabama's history and third in the nation.

Wallace, stepping down from his $25,000-a-year job to become his wife's "No. 1 adviser" at $1 a year, will retain a voice in the state government. They promised the voters in the election campaign last year that Wallace would continue to help make the decisions.

In the months to come, he is almost certain to take an increasingly active part in national political affairs as an avowed champion of state's rights. Before the year ends, he is expected to announce that he will run for president again in 1968 as he did three years ago.

The outgoing governor has said repeatedly that he just might be a candidate unless one of the major parties gives the South "someone we can vote for" — a state's righter like himself. Then, one by one, he has ruled out as unacceptable every potential candidate.

The trim, sun-tanned mother of four children, won the Democratic nomination without a runoff against nine male opponents and then, in the general election last November, she got almost 64 per cent of the votes in a race against a Republican challenger and an Independent.

A "prayer breakfast" preceded an inaugural parade five hours long and including Negro marching bands for the first time since 1865. No Negroes were allowed in the parade when Wallace was sworn in as governor four years ago or when former Gov. John Patterson took office in 1960.

Mrs. Wallace, 41, then was to walk from the reviewing stand to the top of the Capitol steps and take the oath standing on the spot where, 106 years ago, Jefferson Davis became president of the Confederacy.

Alfalfa Weevil New Threat To Michigan Farms

By PHIL BROWN
EAST LANSING (AP) — A 3-16 inch long bug which arrived in Michigan in 1966 threatens to take $8.80 an acre from the pockets of the already troubled dairy farmer and the potentially strong beef raiser.

It won't happen right away, but alfalfa weevils are expected to build up a big enough army in two or three years to upset any farm operations based on forage crops.

Found Last May
They caused $7 million in losses to Ohio farmers in 1965. Ohio's Cooperative Extension Service reported that it generally is cheaper to pay $8.80 an acre to spray insecticides on alfalfa fields than to change to another forage crop.

The weevil was first found in the United States near Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1904. The first one found in Michigan turned up in Livingston County last May 31.

The state had about 1.3 million acres in alfalfa in 1965 and produced about 2.7 million tons.

"If the weevil operates in Michigan as it has in many areas, it could completely change the economics of such things as forage growing, dairy farming and beef raising," said Dr. Gordon Guyer, chairman of Michigan State University's entomology department.

"A farmer with 60 acres, for example would pay about $500 a year for control," he said.

"This pest is completely different than the cereal leaf beetle," he added. "Scientists haven't come up with an answer other than chemicals, and they have had the weevil to work with for years."

For the cereal leaf beetle, he said, some progress has been made in developing parasites, resistant grain varieties and other weapons.

Chemicals Restricted
Even chemical warfare against the weevil is restricted, Guyer said.

"The real effective chemicals can't be used because of residue problems," he explained.

Federal law says there must be absolutely no pesticide residue in milk, while many other food products may have small amounts — several parts per million.

C. A. Boyer, who just retired as chief of the plant industry division of the State Agriculture Department, has argued that there should be a tolerance established in milk standards, too.

"There was a scare about pesticides — maybe rightfully so — but it got 'way out of proportions," he said.

"The whole dairy economy is based on alfalfa," added Dean Lovitt, new chief of the division.

"Dairy farmers are in a bind financially and they'll have to pass control costs on to the consumer or we'll have to quit having milk," he said. "This is not just a matter of helping the farmer."

Lawrence Tebear Dies Saturday At His Home

Lawrence Sterling Tebear, 59, of Rte. 1, Escanaba died early Saturday at his home following a short illness. He was born Dec. 6, 1907 in Gladstone and later lived in Lake Linden. He had resided in Escanaba for the past 30 years.

Mr. Tebear had been employed as an ore dock worker. He is survived by the one brother, Alfred Johns of Pine Ridge, one niece and one nephew.

Friends may call at the Deagan-Crawford Home from 3 to 9:30 p.m. today and complete funeral services will be conducted at the funeral home chapel at 11 a.m. Tuesday. Rev. Jordan Telles will officiate and burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Lani Bird Test Starting Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications Satellite Corp. plans to inaugurate commercial communications service between the United States and Japan late this month via its new Lani Bird satellite.

Lani Bird 2, officially known as Intelsat Satellite 2, was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy, Fla., and reached a synchronous orbit Saturday 22,300 miles above earth.

The new Lani Bird, replacing Lani Bird 1 which failed to achieve synchronous orbit, is designed to serve as a new communications link between the United States and the Far East.

A spokesman said Comsat will begin today 10 days of tests to determine the spacecraft's communications capacity. It is expected to have about 240 circuits. The first, for use between America and Japan, is scheduled tentatively to be opened Jan. 26.

When launched, Lani Bird 2 reached an elliptical orbit ranging between 160 and 19,911 nautical miles above earth. Comsat sent the spacecraft Saturday into a stationary orbit over the Pacific at the international date line.

Because Lani Bird 1 did not reach a synchronous orbit, it could be used for communications only on a part-time basis. Its 35 circuits now will be used only during emergencies.

On April 1, the Defense Department will claim 30 circuits — 10 each for communications between Hawaii, Japan, the Philippines and Thailand. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has contracted for half of the new satellite's communications channels.

THE TEMPERATURE was 33 degrees in International Falls, Minn., and it found 19-year-old Dorothy Johnson, appropriately clad, at the city beach on Rainy Lake looking for a spot to do a little swimming. Unfortunately, a sign, posted high enough to keep it above the snow drifts, proclaims the beach closed for the season. Traditionally, International Falls is the nation's ice box in the winter, so the 33 degree temperature was in the nature of a heat wave. (AP Wirephoto)

Baker's Lawyer Asks Dismissal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers argue today whether charges against Bobby Baker should be thrown out because of "bugging" incidents.

The federal trial of Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats begins its second week. He is charged with income tax evasion, larceny, larceny after trust, interstate transportation of stolen money and conspiracy.

Baker's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, asserts—and the government acknowledges—that:

On March 25, 1965, U.S. agents listened in on a phone conversation between Baker and Wayne L. Bromley, former lobbyist and former Baker associate who is expected to be a government witness in the trial.

The next day Bromley wore a concealed microphone to a conference with Baker and former Lt. Gov. Clifford Jones of Nevada at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel in Los Angeles. The conversation was transmitted to government monitors.

Williams contends—and the government denies—that this violated Baker's constitutional rights.

William O. Bittman, Justice Department prosecutor, said Bromley had sought government protection because Bromley feared an attempt was underway to involve him in a conspiracy to lie before a grand jury investigating Baker's affairs.

Bittman said the bugging was done with Bromley's consent, and that the intercepted conversation did disclose an attempt by Baker and Jones to get Bromley to commit perjury. Jones is now awaiting trial on a charge of perjuring himself before the same grand jury.

Cudahy Employees Ratify New Pact, P&H Strike Ends

MILWAUKEE — Harnischfeger Corp. began recalling some 300 production and maintenance workers at its Cudahy plant today after the employees Sunday ratified a new contract ending an 11-week strike.

The 15-month contract calling for wage and fringe benefits of 27 cents an hour was ratified by members of iron workers local 814 (AFL-CIO) by a 150 to 22 vote. Joseph L. Calabrese, union president, said the union and company had agreed not to release exact terms of the settlement, which was not retroactive.

The strike at the overhead crane manufacturing plant halted production last Oct. 27. One of the most hotly debated issues — at least until the company made its last offer last week — was an incentive system that Harnischfeger had demanded to tie workers' earnings with production. The firm reportedly argued that production in the Cudahy plant was not as efficient as in its main plant at Milwaukee.

Green Bay Blasts Chiefs 35-10 In Super Contest

Chiefs Collapse After Impressive First Half

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vince Lombardi thinks the Kansas City Chiefs simply don't rate with the top teams in the National Football League after watching his Green Bay Packers whip the American Football League champs in Sunday's first Super Bowl game.

"They have a good football team with fine speed but I'd have to say that NFL football is tougher," said Coach Lombardi following the Packers' 35-10 victory before a rather disappointing crowd of 63,086 at the Memorial Coliseum.

The game was supposed to prove which league played the best ball and the NFL came out of this first prestige test with flying colors.

Hank Stram, coach of the Chiefs, paid his respects to the Packers as an excellent team but he maintained, "One game is not a true test of the abilities of both leagues."

Perhaps the best comment of all was made by Lamar Hunt, owner of the Chiefs, founder of the AFL and a major factor in the merger of the two leagues.

"I'm disappointed," said Hunt. "I told somebody they didn't keep the time right. The first half didn't run long enough and the second half ran too long."

At the end of the half the Packers clung to a precarious 14-10 lead and had been out-gained by the Chiefs.

In the second half the NFL champs manhandled Len Dawson, the Chiefs' quarterback, and dominated play by a 21-0 edge.

Willie Wood's interception of a Dawson pass in the third quarter was the first indication that the Packers were aroused. In the first half they had failed to pressure Dawson and let him scramble around.

Pitts Scores TD Wood rammed 50 yards to the Chiefs' five after picking off the pass that was deflected by Lee Roy Caffey. Elijah Pitts went in on the next play and the Packers were on their way.

Bart Starr had a tremendous day, picking out receivers or calling the right ball carrier on those important third down situations. Of 14 third down calls in the game, Starr produced first downs 11 times. He was named the Most Valuable Player of the game and winner of a special sports car award by a magazine.

Starr threw two touchdowns passes to 34-year-old Mac McGee, who caught only four passes during the regular season. The 11-year-veteran led the receivers with seven for 138 yards including the scoring plays of 37 and 13 yards.

Mitchell Was Goat On most of his catches the victim was Willie Mitchell, a corner back who was signalled out for special attention in the Packers' game play.

McGee got into the game when Boyd Dowler, the regular flanker, suffered an injury to his right shoulder on the third play of the game.

"It was our game plan to throw a lot to the receiver on the weak side," said McGee. "I

Cage Incident Statement By School Heads

A joint statement by officials of Gladstone and Escanaba schools was issued today regarding the post-game fight at the Escanaba Area Public School gymnasium when the schools met in basketball last week. The statement:

The basketball coaches and superintendents of the Gladstone and Escanaba Area Public Schools have met to discuss the unfortunate incident following the recent basketball game between the two schools. Disciplinary action has been taken by both schools with the principals involved. A mutual agreement has been reached to preserve the friendly relations which have existed between the two schools for the past quarter of a century. It is felt that through much miscommunication the incident has been blown up out of proportion. As in all incidents of this nature, it has been agreed that there was mutual responsibility in this instance and steps have been taken, and will be taken, to prevent repetition of such occurrences in future games between the two schools as well as in games with other schools. It is felt that involvement of spectators and the public in general does little but to distort the incident.

Taylor Gets One Jim Taylor, who still has not signed his 1966 contract and may have played his last game for the Packers, stormed home from the 14 in the second period.

Elijah Pitts, who took Paul Hornung's place, scored twice from the five and one Hornung, suffering from a pinched nerve in his neck but supposedly available for duty, did not get into the game.

Several of the Packers reportedly have been thinking of calling it quits but the rich postseason rewards ($15,000 for winning the Super Bowl, plus about $8,500 for beating Dallas for the NFL title) may make them change their minds. McGee was one of those who said he planned to retire.

The failure to sell out the Coliseum for this game was blamed on the ticket scale ($12, 10, 6) and a backlash from fans about the local area being blacked-out on television. Another factor was the late date in announcing the site of the game due to prolonged negotiations with the TV networks, two of which (NBC and CBS) finally did a joint telecast.

Merger Misses FG When Dawson was not pressured strongly in the first half he was able to hit with 11 of 15 including a seven-yarder to Curt McClinton for a touchdown.

Mike Mercer, who missed with a 40-yard field goal attempt in the first period, made good from 30 yards out in the dying seconds of the first half.

The Chiefs never got closer than the Packers' 44 in the second half and that was after Pete Beathard had taken over for Dawson at quarterback. Dawson wound up with 16 of 27 for 211 yards. The two Kansas City quarterbacks were dumped six times for 61 yards, trying to pass.

Willie's Interception

Key Play For Packers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Few would say today there was any one real turning point in Green Bay's 35-10 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs in the Super Bowl Sunday.

But a key point certainly came when the Packers' Willie Wood intercepted a Len Dawson pass intended for Fred Arbanas and, in an electrifying run, ran it back 50 yards to the Chiefs' five.

One burst by Elijah Pitts put it across and what had been a 14-10 Green Bay lead became 21-10.

"We knew they'd pass on a third down and five and I was ready," said Wood, performing in the same Memorial Coliseum where he starred for the University of Southern California.

The ball was deflected, Wood revealed, "and I thought it would never come down."

It was another ex-UBC Trojan, Mike Garrett, who hauled Willie down.

Wood then disclosed that Green Bay has a policy of setting up an opponent for a kill, giving away passes to the outside for short yardage — and then hawking in when the ene-

Not Convinced, Dawson Figures Chiefs As Good

By FRANK O'REILLY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Len Dawson, veteran quarterback of the American Football League champion Kansas City Chiefs, spoke affirmatively: "I don't think our performance in the second half is an indication of the strength of our league."

"I'm not convinced they're a better football team than we are. I think we compare favorably with them."

The Chiefs were beaten harshly, 35-10, Sunday by the Green Bay Packers, titlists of the National Football League, in the Super Bowl — the first competition between the rival professional leagues.

But Kansas City, a two-touchdown underdog, fought its NFL counterpart on even terms in the first half, yielding only when Green Bay's Willie Wood intercepted a pass to set up a touchdown early in the third quarter. The score put the Packers ahead 21-10, and they rolled from there.

Kansas City Coach Hank Stram said, "At halftime, I thought we could come back and win it. We played well in the first half, but the interception seemed to change the personality of the game. Once we got behind, we had to deviate from our game plan."

Dawson, a 10-year veteran of pro football, wished he had a second chance. "I shouldn't have thrown it," he said of the intercepted pass. "Their blitz bothered me, and I didn't have any zing on the ball. I shouldn't have thrown it."

Insisting his team may be as good as Green Bay, Dawson conceded that the Packers are better than any AFL club the Chiefs have faced.

Stram was likewise complimentary as he spoke softly from a corner of the crowded locker room. "I was very impressed with the Packers," he said. "They're great offensively and defensively. Everybody knows this. You don't give them anything the easy way. We did, and it cost for us."

In describing the Packers, the Chiefs consistently resorted to the word "great," but rookie halfback Mike Garrett was already rebounding with optimism befitting his 22 years. Said Garrett:

"Believe me, they're not super humans. They're a really fine team, but they make mistakes. We just made more. We'll be back next year. We got a little taste of it today, and we'll be back."

Braves Beat League Foe

GLADSTONE — The Gladstone Braves defeated Munising for the second time this season Saturday night, spreading a 76-71 setback on the Mustangs in Great Lakes Conference action.

Coach Bill Wood's youthful Braves blitzed the visitors 26-12 in the first quarter, spread the margin to 45-27 at halftime and then hung on as Munising challenged in the stretch.

Personal fouls proved costly to the Braves who lost the services of John Watson in the third quarter. Mark Stupak and Steve Nelson in the fourth. Dan Krickard and Darryl Cox of Munising also fouled out of the game in the late stages.

Hawks Not Fast Enough

EAST LANSING (AP)—"Iowa was the fastest team we played this year," said Michigan State University basketball coach John Benington.

But the Hawkeyes weren't fast enough and Michigan State snapped Iowa's seven-game winning streak 79-70 Saturday night.

The Spartan attack sputtered in the first half as Lee Lafayette missed 12 of 15 shots from the forward position. MSU finished the half with an eight-point deficit.

In the second period, Benington moved Lafayette to center and the team clicked. Lafayette supplied the Spartans with the rebounding they lacked earlier and he rattled off 10 points to top MSU scorers with 17 points.

Sam Williams led Iowa scorers with 26 points.

Benington was pleased with his team's performance.

"I think you'd have to say the ball bounced our way tonight. Of course, when you hustle you tend to make your own breaks," he said.

MSU is now 2-0 in Big Ten competition. Iowa is 1-1.

The surging Holy Name Crusaders, rebounding from a winless season last year, will be shooting for their seventh victory of the campaign Tuesday night when they host the Manistique Emeralds.

Coach John Butrymowicz has his revamped Crusader quint on a two-game winning streak with a pair of decisions over Menominee and Gwinn. Holy Name's seven triumphs have come in 11 starts.

Coach Bill Wood's Gladstone Braves face a stiff test Friday night when they travel to Ishpeming to face the Great Lakes Conference leaders. The Hematites have won nine of 10

76ers Bomb Celt Quint

BOSTON (AP)—The Philadelphia 76ers are letting the Boston Celtics do the talking while they keep on winning at a record pace in the National Basketball Association.

The 76ers are bidding to end Boston's eight-year reign as NBA champions. They shocked the Celtics with 17 straight points within 3½ minutes in the second period and rolled to an easy 110-95 victory Sunday. Philadelphia boosted its Eastern Division lead to 9½ games.

The Celtics, who obviously must look ahead to the playoffs in hopes of keeping the title, continued to maintain they have the best bench in the league, but even most partisan fans would find it hard to believe.

"We lost the game on that 17 point spree," Boston Player-Coach Bill Russell said. "We stopped running and began taking bad shots. I told everyone to run, run until they got tired and then tell me."

"We've got the best bench in the league and have the strength to run for 48 minutes a game. They just didn't do it."

Wilt Chamberlain, sporting a new look as a complete player instead of just a high-scoring star, played a top role as he scored 19 points, grabbed 25 rebounds, blocked 13 shots and set up baskets for the 76ers.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles tripped Detroit 127-118. St. Louis edged San Francisco 114-112, and Chicago routed the New York Knicks 131-116.

Jerry West's 39 points led the Lakers into a tie for third place with Detroit in the Western Division as the Pistons lost their sixth straight at home.

West scored 17 of his points in the third quarter when Los Angeles pulled from a 60-58 half-time lead to a 96-83 spread.

Dave Bing had 31 for Detroit. Len Wilkens kept second-place St. Louis two games ahead of the Lakers and Pistons, and 8½ behind San Francisco by dropping a hook shot with three seconds left to beat the Warriors. Rick Barry, who scored 48, tied the game moments before with two free throws.

Nate Thurmond of the Warriors and Zelmo Beaty of the Hawks each had 26 points. Chicago's balanced attack took an early lead and New York never got closer than five in the second half. Bob Bozzer had 33. Guy Rodgers 28. Erwin Mueller 24 and Jerry Sloan 22 for the Bulls. Dick Barnett had 30 for the Knicks.

In Saturday's action, Boston beat Baltimore 115-108. Cincinnati bombed St. Louis 116-105. Chicago edged Los Angeles 122-121 and San Francisco trounced Detroit 136-121.

Central Michigan Bounced From Lead

By The Associated Press

Central Michigan was toppled from the IIAAC lead, Eastern Michigan scored an easy victory in a nonconference game and Western Michigan took second place in the MAC in weekend basketball play.

CMU lost a close one to Illinois State at Normal, Ill., 66-65 after leading 37-33 at halftime. Jerry McGreal led the Illinois attack with 24 points. John Berends scored 13 for CMU.

EMU led all the way in trouncing Ferris 97-77 at Ypsilanti. The victory gave Eastern Michigan an impressive 11-3 record for the season so far. Ferris has won only one of 10 games.

WMU had little trouble defeating Kent State 100-71 in a Mid-American Conference game. The Michigan team was sparked by Clarence Harville, who scored 27 points. WMU has a 2-0 MAC record and is 7-4 for the season. Kent State has lost three league games and has 1-11 season mark.

At Detroit, Wayne State scored its third victory in eight starts by downing Adrian 80-70. Four players reached double scoring figures—Terry Cupples with 15 and Roy Clinkscales with 15 for the Tartars, and Marty Letzmann and Kris Suurman who had 13 each for Adrian.

The Detroit Titans suffered a 94-75 loss to Dayton, which hit on 51 per cent of its field goal tries. Detroit managed only 30 per cent. The Dayton attack was paced by Don May with 27 points and Rudy Waterman who had 23. Detroit's Bruce Redman and Jerry Swartzfager got 20 points each.

Pistons Continue Losing Ways, Crowds Reflect Team Fortunes

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Pistons continued their losing ways Sunday, and the size of the crowd reflected their skidding basketball fortunes.

Only 2,383 persons showed up to watch the Pistons take a 127-116 beating from the Los Angeles Lakers. It was the smallest crowd of the season at Cobo Arena.

"If you can't win at home in this league, you're in real trouble," said assistant coach Donnie Butler in the dressing room.

"We didn't shoot worth a darn—and we didn't play defense."

In winning, the Lakers moved into a third place tie with Detroit in the National Basketball Association's Western Division.

Jerry West was the big gun for Los Angeles. He accounted for 39 points, sinking 17 of them in the third period.

Pistons star Dave Bing tied the score at 60-60 in the first 10 seconds of the third period before West went on his scoring jag, netting five out of six from the field and seven straight from the free throw line.

From then on, the closest the Pistons came to catching up was six points.

In another NBA contest, the Philadelphia 76ers routed the Boston Celtics 110-95 before a crowd of 11,246 in Boston. The winners were paced by Dyke Jackson, who took high-scoring honors with 28 points, and Wilt Chamberlain, who turned in a fabulous job under the boards. Chamberlain grabbed 28 rebounds.

In St. Louis, the Hawks edged the San Francisco Warriors 114-112 on a hook shot by Len Wilkens with three seconds to go. San Francisco had tied the game on two free throws by Rick Barry, who got 48 points in the contest.

Chicago surged into an early lead and went on for a 131-116 victory over the New York Knicks in a game played in Chicago. The Bulls were paced by Bob Bozzer, with 33 points. Dick Barnett had 30 for New York.

PROVIDING CONGRESS approves the 6 per cent surtax requested by the President in his State of the Union message, some 67 million Americans face the prospect of increased income taxes. Examples of the increases average taxpayers can look forward to are for a single person and a married couple with two children, taking all their exemptions and the standard deduction. The surtax—an additional levy on taxes paid rather than on total income—is designed to hit rich and middle-income citizens. Some 18 million low-income taxpayers would not be affected.

Kentucky Wildcats Tumble Into Cellar

By The Associated Press

Princeton's tall Tigers may be outgrowing the Ivy League, but Kentucky has been squeezed into an uncomfortable fit in the tough Southeastern Conference.

While Princeton, the nation's seventh-ranked college basketball power, humiliated Harvard and Dartmouth last weekend for a 4-0 perch atop the Ivy standings, No. 10-ranked Kentucky belted Kentucky 89-72 and tumbled the Wildcats into the SEC cellar.

The Tigers, seeking their fourth Ivy championship in the last five seasons, buried Harvard 90-46 Friday night and then shattered league scoring and rebounding records in mauling Dartmouth 116-42 Saturday night.

Ed Hummer, the Tigers' 6-foot-6 captain, scored 20 points and 6-9 soph Chris Thomforde hit for 19, leading the point deluge which wiped out the old Ivy record of 110 set last season by Cornell against Dartmouth. Princeton's 90 rebounds also set a single-game mark, eclipsing Yale's 1959 record by two.

Thomforde netted 37 points in the weekend sweep, Hummer had 29, John Haarlow 28, Gary Walters 27, Joe Heiser 25 and Robby Brown, the 6-foot-9 reserve center, 21.

Beaten only by second-ranked Louisville in 14 starts, the Ivy giants appear certain to go up in the national rankings this week.

Kentucky, however, may be headed for its worst finish in Coach Adolph Rupp's 37-year reign after absorbing its third loss in three SEC starts and slipping to 5-6 over-all.

The Wildcats were 32-2 last season, bowing to Texas Western in the NCAA final. They have won or shared 22 conference titles in 34 years and have never finished in the basement.

Florida, which has never won the SEC crown, raced to its sixth league victory against one setback as Gary Keller and David Miller each canned 23 points.

The Gators, 11-1 on the season, entertain Tennessee while Kentucky visits Georgia in SEC games tonight.

Top-ranked UCLA and four other titans won Saturday night but No. 3 New Mexico bowed to Denver 71-46 for its second loss in two nights.

Low Alcindor sat out 11 minutes but still poured in 37 points as UCLA ran its unbeaten string to 12 games with a 116-76 romp over Stanford. Butch Beard, Louisville's soph sharpshooter, scored 41 points as the Cardinals, 14-1, trounced Bradley 103-74 on the losers' court.

Houston, No. 4, also made it 14 out of 15 by smashing West Texas State 108-72 behind Elvin Hayes' 24 points. Eighth-ranked Kansas, 11-2, shot past Missouri 70-60 and remained on top in the Big E.

Most biologists assume the name for the Red Sea originated from the presence of tiny, red-pigmented organisms in its waters. These organisms, at certain seasons, proliferate extraordinarily and cause what we sometimes call "red tide."

Perpetual Silence

Central Australia's War-munga people required all female relatives of a deceased male to remain silent for a year or two as a form of mourning. The restriction includes remote kin and thus most tribal women usually are condemned to perpetual silence, so they become proficient in sign language.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Even though there is still plenty of land in the public domain and the Homestead Act of 1862 is still in effect, you'd better think twice before you pull stakes and rush out to claim your 160 acres.

No less an authority than the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management (BLM) has quietly been trying to "de-emphasize" homesteading for the last year or so.

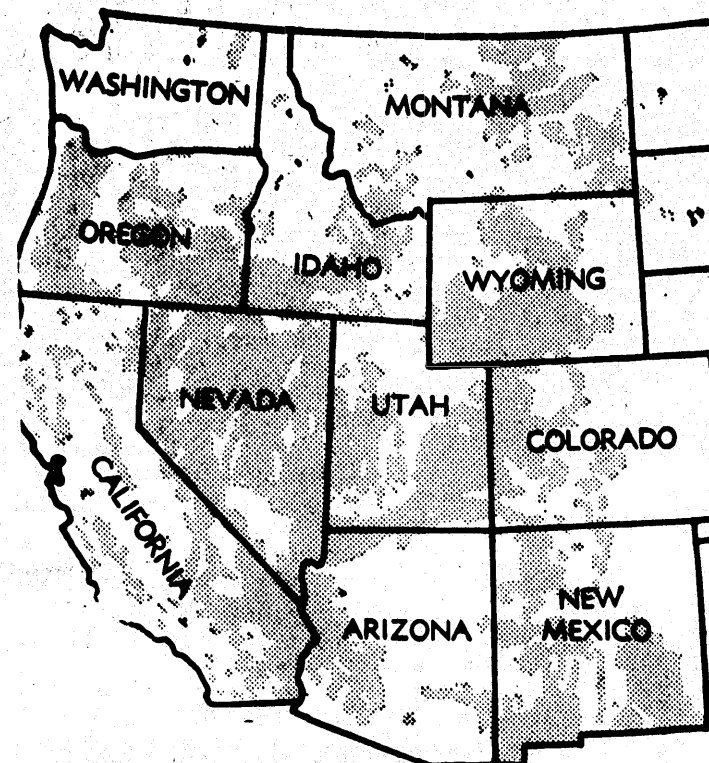

The reason is simple: although there is roughly 460 million acres of land—about one fifth of the total area of the United States—in the public domain, practically none of it is suitable for homesteading. "Bluntly, you've little chance of homesteading," warns a recent BLM pamphlet. "This is true even in Alaska, the 'last frontier.'"

Better than half of the 460 million acres are in Alaska; less than one-thousandth of them are east of Montana and New Mexico. And just about every one of them is too dry, too rocky or too remotely located for anybody to convert to a farm.

And under strict interpretation of the Homestead Act, that's precisely what you have to do with your 160 acres of public land to keep them.

Any land claimed must be classified by BLM as suitable for agricultural purposes. The anticipated return from farming must be enough to support the residents.

In Alaska, where as recently as six years ago the Homestead Act was "liberally" interpreted so that a prospective landowner could keep 160 acres by merely planting grass on 20 acres of it and building a shack, most of the prime land is now owned by the state.

There's still plenty of public land in the state, but the "hard" interpretation of the Homestead Act applies. And, despite the fact that most Alaskans consider themselves "pioneers," today's farmer needs quite a bit more than an ax, a plow and an ox.

BLM estimates the cost of clearing a 160-acre homestead, erecting buildings and equipping a farm in Alaska may run from $40,000 to $60,000.

So far, only 22,000 acres of commercial crop lands have been developed in all Alaska.

You can, however, homestead on up to 640 acres of state-owned land, which is sold at public auction to the highest bidder. You can buy it outright or homestead on public contract, paying 10 per cent down and spreading the balance over the next nine years.

Improvement—such as clearing part of it, building fences or buildings, digging a well or constructing an access road—can be applied against the annual payments.

What will happen to the 460 million acres of public land? Although for all practical purposes you can't homestead it, you can still use it.

BLM is now beginning to build a few rustic campsites and similar accommodations on the land. But to Bureau planners, the charm of the public domain lies in its primitive or near-primitive condition.

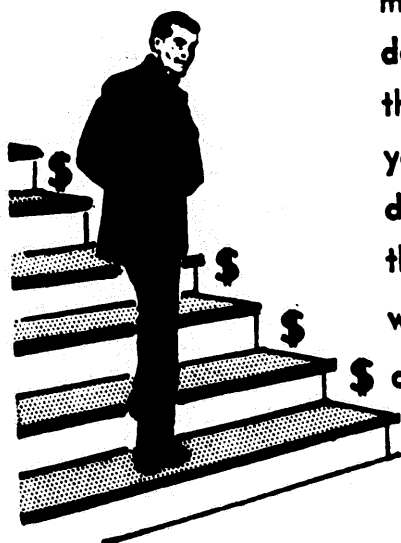

They don't actually foresee the day when thousands of American families will spend their vacations camping out on the sagebrush-covered Nevada desert. Indeed, to the Bureau's "purists," this idea is about as revolting as the thought of a 40-foot billboard on their front lawn.

But they do argue that many Americans want to see and explore the vast open spaces for what they are.

In the meantime, they will go about their quiet job of discouraging America's pioneer spirits from homesteading. Says one BLM official:

"If you're interested in becoming a landowner quickly and cheaply, for God's sake don't come to us. Do it the easy way. Just look up your friendly real estate agent."
